TEHUANTEPEC AND NUEZ.

The readers of the APPEAL are aware that England wants to have a second canal in Egypt over which she shall have distinct and sole authority. The French, through De Lessens, have the sole right to dig such a canal, and England is trying to find a way of being independent of France in the matter. It has discovered that if it cannot construct a canal as it desires, it can build a railway, and the peoples, it is aiming to dominate weaker railway required is of the character Capt. Eads is about to put across the American Isthmus at Telluantepec, and the London Morning Advertiser has called attention to the fact. It speaks of Capt.
